40 Sonnets contains imitations of Du Fu and Gottfried Benn, tributes to favorite jazz musicians and to the TV show House, excoriations of Tony Blair and of the violence in Gaza, and an homage to photographer Francesca Woodman written in the form of seven aphoristic self-contained heroic couplets (the seventh: "All rooms will hide you, if you stand just so.

40 Sonnets by Don Paterson - Goodreads

40 Sonnets is awash with verbal skill, lyrical subtlety, and formal cleverness. It is a testament to the resilience of the sonnet that a modern-day collection can comfortably hold its own, which Paterson achieves not only with the breadth of his subject matters, but also with his varied approach to compositional methods.

Review: '40 Sonnets' - The Oxford Culture Review

Sonnet 40 begins a three-sonnet sequence in which the poet shares his possessions and his mistress with the youth, although it is not until Sonnet 41 that he directly mentions their liaison. The use of the word "love" may be confusing to readers, for "love" in this sonnet means at least three different things.
